

COVID-19 testing available at Theo Ratliff Activity Center

COVID-19 testers Johnnie Sanders (left) and Loretta Henderson (right) assist residents in taking COVID-19 tests and provide much needed resources. Photo by Andrea Burroughs. Johnnie Sanders and Loretta Henderson represented West Central Alabama AHEC at a recent COVID-19 testing event held at the Theo Ratliff Center in Demopolis. Despite the decline in positive COVID cases, the agency continues testing to promote awareness of the virus and offer vaccination assistance. The testing is free to the public and West Central Alabama AHEC encourages community members to stop by and get the test while also learning valuable resources to help them as they continue to navigate this public health challenge. Ms. Rosie London, Executive Director, states the importance of residents having free access to the COVID-19 testing. Education and prevention are resources that the communities need, and West Central Alabama AHEC uses community-based organizations and community health workers (CHW) to deliver those tools and resources.

Read more at: <https://www.demopolistimes.com/2023/08/02/covid-19-testing-available-at-theo-ratliff-activity-center/>